Nextrail Global (part of POA Educational Foundation) is a Canadian Charitable organization. It intends to provide funds and expertise to initiatives that foster economic growth in developing nations through education in the field of Information Technology. Nextrail Global will foster growth by: building academic institutions focused on applied education in software engineering; provide incubation facilities for local entrepreneurial ventures; and through participating in social development projects using Information Technology.

The primary task of the Foundation is to bridge the gap of expertise between the rapidly evolving global IT industry and the skill set of students graduating from local universities. To achieve this end, Nextrail intends to establish institutes of technology with a combined focus on engineering methodology and applied skills in current technologies. Each institute will utilize various tools and methodology to ensure a globally recognized standard of education is delivered to students including: cooperative learning; e-learning and blended learning; and industry certification.
